

Earth Canvas Events for 2025!

Artist Workshop with Jon Cattapan

November 16 to 22 2025

Country more than Mapping project

2025 Earth Canvas and Wagga Wagga Art Residency

Earth Canvas continues to support Artists and farmers to extend their knowledge of Regenerative Agriculture. WE understand the importance of healthy soil, plants and animals to nourish all beings. We continue to engage with artists and Aboriginal communities to express how they view the landscape. Through the eye of the artist and Aboriginal people we can look at Country from a creative perspective.

Artist Workshop with abstract artist Jon Cattapan

People in the Landscape

When: November 16 to 22 2025

Where: At Chatsworth House, Chatsworth Western Victoria.

For: Practicing artists with some experience

Join renowned artist and educator Jon Cattapan for a five-day immersive workshop, set against the stunning regeneratively farmed landscape of Chatsworth House, east of the Grampians. This unique experience invites both serious artists and creative explorers to deepen their artistic practice, engage in meaningful discussions, and experiment with figurative techniques.

NEW Project

Country more than Mapping

is a project with Aboriginal people talking with Regenerative farmers, traditional Farmers and stakeholders to share knowledge. The project will focus on regions along the Murrumbidgee River in southern NSW. We want to start the conversation and build a bridge of understanding.

Kim Mahood an Artist and Author and spends 6 months a year for the past 10 years working with remote communities on “Co Mapping”. It is about developing a large hand-painted topographic maps that integrate both scientific information and local Indigenous and current land management knowledge.

What began as a project to map and record the overlap between these knowledge systems has evolved into a process of recording detailed information about Country. Including water quality, waterbirds, fish, fire, vegetation, and paleogeomorphology and stories.

The co-mapping workshop is designed to introduce people to the practical methodologies of creating a cross-cultural map, and the essential ways to prepare the ground before embarking on a co-mapping project. of recording and reporting information.

The first 2-day Earth Canvas workshop will take place between Tumut and Wagga Wagga during November 2025.

If you are interested or have some knowledge you would like to share, please contact info@earthcanvas.com.au

Or further information contact Rhæe hello@regenerativecommunities.com.au

About Rhæe

Rhæe work as a performance and visual artist includes two fields of practice- Body Weather and Regenerative Practice- Rhæe is developing a unique creative approach into researching place. Body Weather is a comprehensive approach to movement and performance that investigates the intersections of bodies and the environments. Methodologies include engaging in deep sensory explorations of the environment and developing responses which result in a performance.

Regenerative practice involves researching the geology, biology and hydrology of the landscape, as well as the social-cultural context.
